

Kelly Coldiron

Kelly Coldiron is a seasoned transportation and logistics professional with a distinguished 27-year career spanning asset recovery, commercial transport solutions, heavy haul logistics, and executive sales leadership. She currently serves as a Logistics Specialist for Nationwide Transport Services, leveraging her expertise to drive operational efficiency and client satisfaction.

Throughout her career, including leadership roles at organizations like Coldiron Specialized Driveaway, Kelly has developed deep expertise in third-party logistics operations, commercial truck transport, and FMCSA policies and regulations. A strategic builder of corporate partnerships, she is recognized for spearheading business development and territory growth while ensuring safety compliance. Kelly's true passion lies in finding transport and sales solutions that her customers might not have otherwise known were possible.

An active leader within the logistics community, she served as a Used Truck Association (UTA) Board Member from 2017 through 2019, collaborating with peers on manufacturing trends, equipment compliance, and innovation. Driven by a "never give up" attitude, Kelly lives by one of her favorite quotes: "If you find yourself falling behind, run faster!"
